Haymond was coached for two years by Robertson and is einted over the chance to again don the spikes under his former coach. In the eastern trials the local men will have better competition than will be offered in the western trials and that is what they are craving. Haymond will lock horns against Scholtz of Missouri and Andy Ward of the Chicago A. A. in the sprints, but is contract of making the

(By international News Service.)
LONDON-Golf has come into its own again this year throughout the British Isles. Last year golf enthusiasts were too busy getting settled down to business and other activities, following the war, to devote much time to their game. Besides, many courses had gotten into dis-repair. But this year the game appears to are arranged on every hand-club.

There are three big meets arranged for June, including the amateur British championship competition at Muirfield, the Daily Mail's open competi-tion at Westward Ho for $2000 in prizes, and the British open championship competition at Deal.
